

Daily B3 28/02/13

Jobs for many

GOVERNMENT is aiming to create 3,7 million jobs in the next phase of its Expanded Public Works Programme. Two million of these will be full-time jobs.

The programme will continue allocating more resources to speed up the state's involvement in creating work for the country's unskilled and unemployed.

For the upcoming financial year (2013/14), a target had been set to reach 1,2 million jobless South Africans.

