A REPORT on an investigation into the R206m upgrade of President Jacob Zuma's Nkandla home was 90% complete, Public Protector Thuli Madonsela said yesterday in Pretoria.

She said Zuma and his office at the Union Buildings fully cooperated with the investigation without challenging her powers, jurisdiction or concealing information.

Madonsela said: "The Presidency showed no resistance towards the investigation. The president's office has been cooperating with us since day one. My jurisdiction has never been challenged." Madonsela said she had not sought much information.
