

Commission 'housed in unfit building'

The Public Service Commission told Parliament's portfolio committee on public service, administration, monitoring and evaluation that the Department of Public Works placed the institution in an "unfit building" in Pretoria, saying that the health hazards in the building left the commission vulnerable to lawsuits from employees.

Chairman Ben Mthembu said it was an occupational hazard because of the unsafe air in the building. /Khulekani Magubane