

It's a wet day inside the office at Court E

A leaking E Court at the Port Shepstone Magistrate's building disrupted court proceedings on Monday this week. Due to the recent rains water had leaked into the courtroom which affected service delivery as many cases had to be postponed. Staff placed a dish and a bucket to collect water falling onto the Magistrates bench. According to the court manager, John Ganga he had informed the Department of Public Works about the leak and was awaiting their feedback.
