FUNDAMENTALS FOR CHANGE

Mamokete Projects – constructing sustainable solutions for the future

Mamokete Projects started trading in 2009 and quickly gained a reputation for providing a holistic approach to construction and property development in SA.

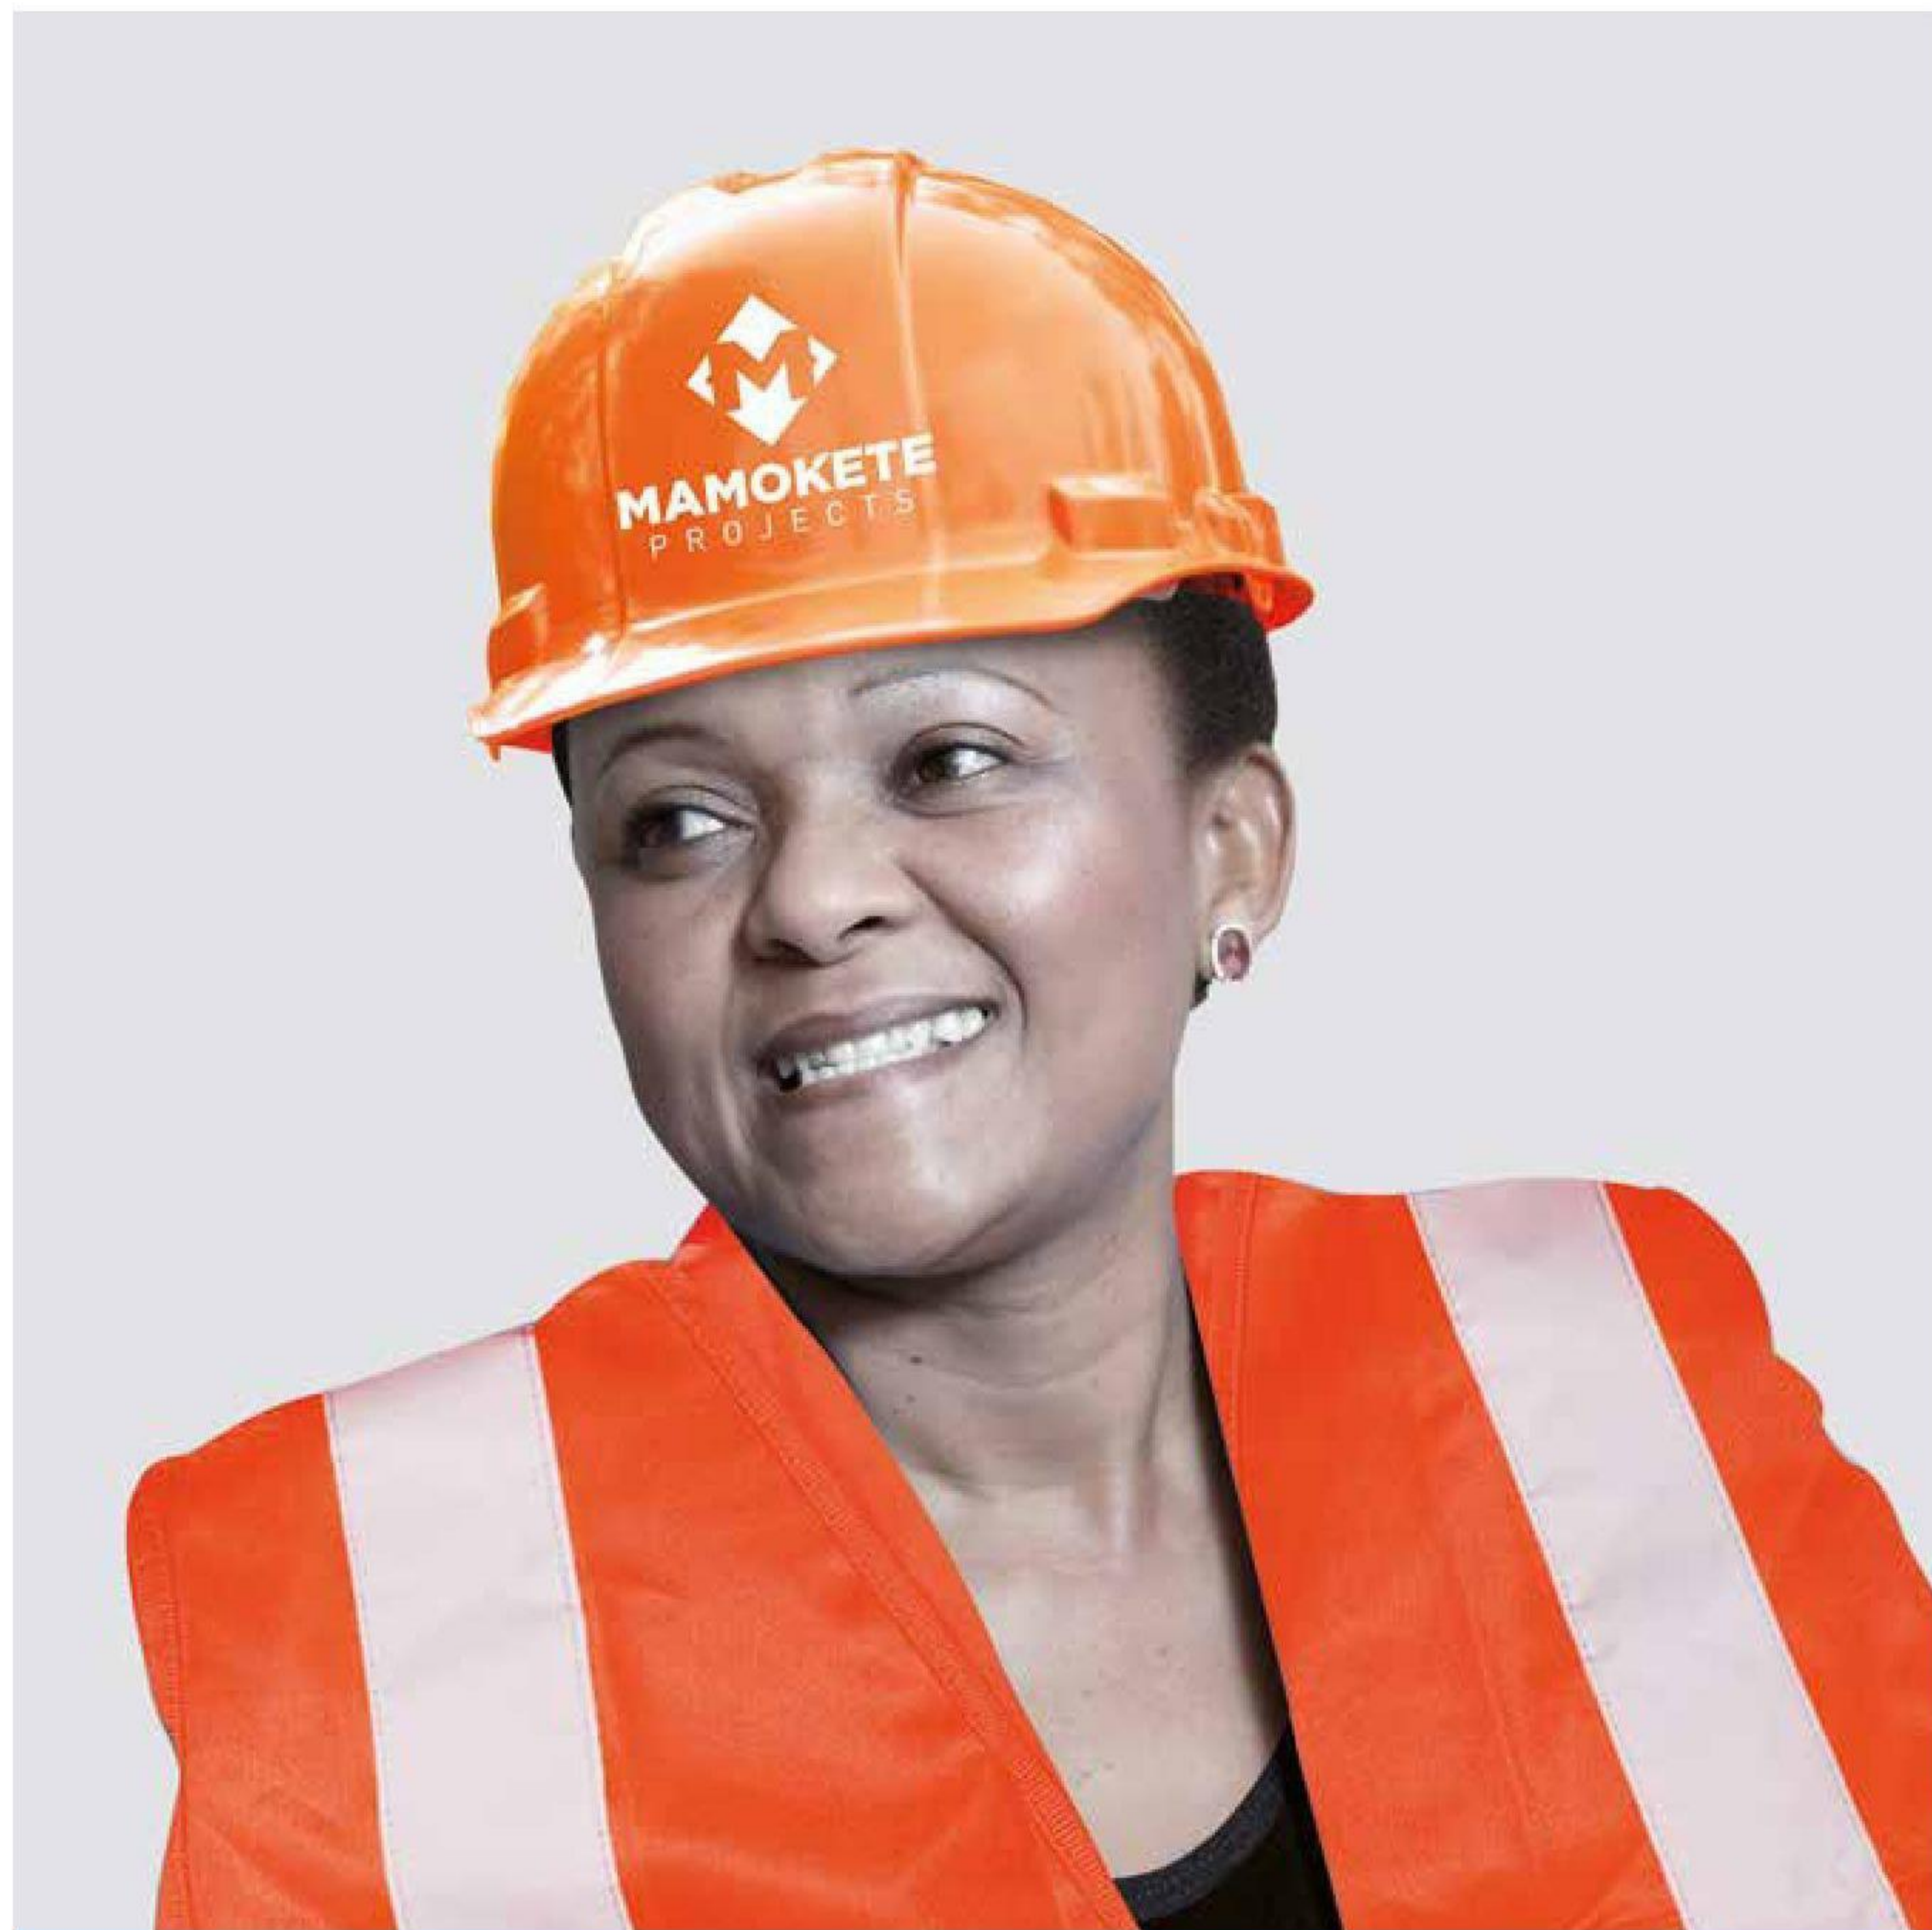

As a 100% black women-owned enterprise, Mamokete Projects has gone on to become a highly diversified company and leader in its field. It is ideally positioned to now offer state-of-the-art project management and quantity surveying, as well as civil and electrical engineering services to both the public and private sectors.

With its keen understanding of the industry and a well-established national client portfolio, Mamokete Projects has developed a reputation for taking on and overcoming SA construction industry challenges nationally with its delivery of groundbreaking and ultra-modern responses on behalf of its clients.

Maximising its years of industry knowledge and know-how, Mamokete Projects has developed a competitive advantage as a result of effective teamwork, significantly enhancing its ability to deliver quality projects on time and on budget.

The company offers the streamlined services of general building (which includes undertaking both new building developments and renovations); civil (including the completion of storm damage projects, roads, pipelines and steel reinforcing); mechanical engineering; water and sanitation; building reservoirs and abstraction works; registrations; and CSI and empowerment.

Central to its business approach is the effective management of the company's skilled team of professionals. Mamokete Projects set out to instil in its staff an intensive service culture, offset by an overriding commitment to paying close attention to detail in all that it undertakes.

Dr Nomzamo Tutu, CEO of Mamokete Projects

Mamokete Projects' vision is to build sustainable communities through state-of-the-art construction technology, in line with the Construction Charter. Its mission is to meet customer needs by offering a wide spectrum of construction services at the best value; to be competent and timely in delivering its services, with due regard for quality; and to build and preserve professional integrity in the construction industry through quality workmanship.

At the helm of Mamokete Projects is the CEO, Dr Nomzamo Tutu. In the constant pursuit of progression, Tutu has always been inspired to move forward while contributing positively to society by adopting a 360-degree approach to her life's work.

This led to the first pit stop in her career as a qualified medical practitioner. With a desire to develop further, she went on to acquire a host of qualifications, including a bachelor of surgery, a postgrad diploma in occupational health, a postgrad diploma in HIV/Aids management in the world of work, and a bachelor of science degree.
