YOUR VOICE opinions on the street

The Rep reporter Sphokuhle Nongauza took to Komani's streets to ask residents to share their thoughts on Mandela Day and service delivery in their communities, in light of former president Nelson Mandela having espoused the values of dignity, fairness, and accountability.

The municipalities need to do more.

They have been failing communities for years by not considering complaints and not providing feedback to people.

Home affairs needs to upgrade their systems.

Some of us are from Tsomo come all the way to Komani to apply for smart IDs in Komani.

Sometimes you end up going home without doing what you came to do and it costs us transport money.

The water and sanitation department needs more people on the ground.

As we speak, we are struggling with water. We need urgent intervention.

The residents are trying to intervene themselves due to lack of service from this department.

The public works and transport departments struggle with maintaining roads and transport infrastructure.

Rural roads in particular are in a terrible condition, affecting school access, response times of emergency services, and economic development.

The health department needs to intervene in the clinics and the hospital in Komani.

The service is very poor and it is draining when you have an appointment to go to any of these.
